Gonty-Donald exchange marriage vows at a double - ring ceremony

RESTON—The Reston United Church was the scene of a pretty wedding on Saturday, August 5th at four o'clock when Rev. E. R. Schurman officiated at the double ring ceremony which united Kerry Diane, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Donald of Reston and Edward Marcel, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcel Gonty of Virden.

Large white baskets of mixed flowers decorated the front of the Church and the guest pews were marked by white bows with mauve flowers in the centre of each.

The radiant bride, given in marriage by her parents, chose for her wedding a traditionally bouffant gown of imported silk organza and chantilly lace. The fitted bodice of lace featured a high neckline, jewelled with sequins and silver lustre. The full camelot sleeves ended in deep cuffs adorned with a row of self-covered buttons. The front of the full skirt formed a panel of imported silk organza, bordered with lace. Tier upon tier of chantilly lace fell gracefully from the waistline ending in a cathedral train. Her silk lagoda Juliet cap was enhanced by a floor length veil of silk illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and baby's breath.

The bride wore pearl earrings the gift of the groom and as something old, she wore a pearl brooch which was her Great Grandmother Donald's.

She was attended by her sister Melva as maid of honor, Mrs. Myrna Bission, Dunrea, only sister of the groom, Mrs. Barbara Donald, Reston, sister-in-law of the bride, Mrs. Mavis Stephenson, Virden, friend of the bride, as bridesmaids and the bride's youngest sister Leigh as bridesmaid.

They wore identical styled floor length gowns with bodices of plain lilac polyester sheer, overskirts of floral French sheer in tones of mauve, green and orange, over hammered satin lining. The bodices featured high necklines, long full sleeves ending at the elasticized waist, which were trimmed with mauve and gold braid. The fully gathered skirts which featured a deep ruffle at the hemline were held at the waistline by a self-covered belt with shoestring ties. They wore small lilac flowers in their hair and carried colonial bouquets of white feathered carnations tipped orchid with long orchid ribbons.

The little flower girl, Karen Grant, of Pipestone, cousin of the bride, wore a gown identical to the others, except it had short puffed sleeves, and a lilac velvet ribbon and bow at the waistline, lilac ribbon also entwined through her hair. She carried a basket of pink sweetheart rose buds with orchid ribbon.

The groom wore a black tuxedo with white ruffled shirt and he had a white carnation centered with a red rose bud.

Attendants were Mr. Ronald Gonty, Winnipeg, cousin of the groom as best man, Mr. Fernie Bission, Dunrea, brother-in-law of the groom and Mr. Murray Stephenson, Virden, as groomsmen. The guests were ushered by Mr. Grant Donald, Reston, brother of the bride and Mr. Don Gonty, Winnipeg, cousin of the groom. All wore dark brown tuxedos with light mauve ruffled shirts.

Trent Cameron, Virden, ring bearer was dressed identical to the groom except he wore a slight mauve ruffled shirt.

Organist Mrs. Bea Gately, Sinclair, accompanied a duet sung by Mr. Bev Milliken and Miss Wendy Milliken of Sinclair. "The Wedding Prayer" was sung prior to the exchange of vows and "Whither Thou Goest" and "I'll Walk Beside You" during the signing of the register.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Donald chose a floor length gown of summer fortrel in apple green with a raised design in white. The princess style gown featured long sleeves and a high mandarin collar. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of red sweetheart roses.

The groom's mother wore a floor length gown of turquoise polyester crepe. The princess style gown featured short sleeves and a round neckline. Her accessories were white and she wore a corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

The bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. E. Grant, Pipestone, chose a mauve figured coat style dress with white accessories and her corsage was of yellow carnations.

The bride's paternal grandmother, Mrs. J. Donald, Reston, chose a yellow figured dress tipped with a sleeveless rust coat, with beige accessories and she wore a corsage of yellow carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception was held for 150 guests in the Reston Community Rink, which was decorated with mauve and white streamers and bells.

The five tiered wedding cake beautifully decorated in white and shades of mauve, centred the bride's table, and silver candelabra with white tapers were on either side.

Mr. Ronald Gonty was master of ceremonies and Rev. E. R. Schurman asked the blessing.

Mr. Jim Donald Jr., of Winnipeg, uncle of the bride proposed the toast to the bride to which the groom replied, Miss Shelley Donald, Altona, Man., cousin of the bride was in charge of the guest book.

The reception was catered to by the Reston U. C. W. Servetiers were Mrs. Rhonda Thies sen, Misses Carol Jezzard, Laura Duncan, Faye Jago and Delphie Sharratt.

Friends and relatives viewed the many gifts at the bride's home and then attended the dance that followed at the Reston rink, music supplied by the Moonlighters of Hargrave.

For going away the bride chose a full length pant dress topped with a long overskirt of blue and mauve design. Dark mauve accessories completed her attire. Her corsage was a white orchid.

The happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to North Dakota, Montana and Calgary, Alberta. Upon their return they will reside on the groom's farm north of Reston.

Cooling trend

Mrs. Eliza Challenger Smith Reston's oldest resident dies

RESTON—Funeral service for Mrs. Eliza Challenger Smith, the oldest resident in Reston, was held in the United Church on Monday afternoon. Rev. E. R. Schurman, assisted by Rev. D. Hester, officiated. The choir was in attendance with Mrs. Bea Gately as organist. A Menonite mixed quintette sang a number.

Mrs. Smith, who celebrated her 94th birthday on June 15th, had been a resident of Reston since 1904. She enjoyed good health for most of her long life but was in Reston Community Hospital for several weeks before her death on August 25th.

Born in Kensington, England, she came to Canada as a child of two with her parents in 1880 and was the last surviving member of the Challenger family of seven children. A brother, the late Frederick Challenger, was a noted painter and among his works were the murals on the walls of the main dining room of the old Alexandra Hotel in Winnipeg. These were removed before the building was demolished.

Mrs. Smith graduated from the Bible Training School in Toronto in 1899 and from the Nursing Mission there in June 1903 with first class honors and special mention in obstetrics. The following year she came to Reston, where she was a pioneer nurse.

During her years in Reston she was a community leader in many areas and especially in church work. She served as organist and choir leader of the Methodist Church and later of the United Church. She was also the organist for the Altona Lodge and played at the service there the Sunday prior to entering the hospital.

She was a life member of the Women's Missionary Society, which was later amalgamated with the United Church Women, of which she was an active member up to the time of her death. It can truthfully be said of Mrs. Smith, that she never said an unkind word about any one.

She was a member of Reston Chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star and a farewell ceremony was performed in the church by that Order. She was also a member of the Elizabeth Legion Auxiliary Branch.

Her husband, the late Albert E. Smith was a pioneer and an active member of the community during his lifetime. They were married in 1905 and Mr. Smith died in 1950. Although called on many times after their marriage to assist as a nurse, Mrs. Smith would take no remuneration for her services.

Left to mourn are a son, Donald of Montreal, and a daughter Mildred (Mrs. M. W. Cormack) of Nijoro, Kenya, Africa. She was predeceased by a son, Ted, killed in action in 1943 in India, and a daughter Olive (Mrs. H. Bergsteinson) in 1959.

A nephew Stan Shippam of Winnipeg, spent his early childhood with Mr. and Mrs. Smith, following the untimely death of his mother.

There are eight grandchildren and fourteen great grandchildren.

Burial was in the family plot at the Reston Cemetery with the pallbearers being: Honorary, Doug Watt, J. D. Bulloch, E. J. Guthrie, J. E. Wilson, Alex Watt, Russell Manning, Active: John Berry, Edson Berry, Arthur Smith, Lorne Watt, John Williamson and Gordon Smeltz. Interment was in the family plot in Reston Cemetery.

ALSTONE NOTES

by E. J. Guthrie

The holidays are gradually coming to an end as there were more people out to Church on Sunday morning. Rev. Ernie gave us a good talk on excuses. And we couldn't find any reason or excuse to argue with him.

The Mennonite people came to Alstone on Sunday night for their every two month, month end meeting. The service consisted of the singing of old favorites, recitations, reading of scripture, a short sermon of Minister Barkman and prayer. The 23rd Psalm was sung in memory of the late Ellie Smith.

We are sorry to have to report the passing in Reston Hospital on Friday morning of one of the respected members of Alstone Lodge, Ellie Smith who had been ill for the past few weeks. Ellie was president of our Lodge council. She was in her ninety-fifth year. Her son, Donald, of Montreal and her daughter Mildred Cormack, of Kenya, Africa, both arrived home while she could still visit with them, which pleased her greatly. We will sadly miss Ellie at Alstone. Her funeral service was held in Reston United Church at 2:30 Monday afternoon, with her remains being laid to rest in the Reston Cemetery beside those of her husband the late A. E. Smith. A committal service was held by Reston Order of the Eastern Star in the Church. Refreshments were served in the Alstone Lounge.

Marion Mayert and son Robb dropped in at Alstone on Saturday. We are always glad to hear her cherry voice and see her pleasant smile.

We were pleased to see Wallace Watt in town the other day. We hear his wife Marg is with him but didn't see her. 'Mose' is like the bad happenings that always turns up when least expected, but he always drops in to see his mom whenever he gets a chance.

Mrs. Anni Wyand, of Kisbey, Sask., visited last week with her sister-in-law Miss Jessie Jackson. The Duncan's and Skelton's journeyed to Kisbey, Sask. on Sunday.

A real nice gathering of friends and relations gathered in the lounge for refreshments after attending Aunt Ellie Smith's funeral, which was served by the Legion Ladies, U. C. W., and Order of the Eastern Star. The heat was rather intense until the big fan from the tee pee was set on the table in the entrance which got the air circulating through the south door. Now we know what to do in future. Four people we met whom we hadn't seen for some time were Minnie, Lottie and Lillian, daughters of the late Thos. Smith of Sinclair and Marion, daughter of the late Herb & Ethel Smith formerly of Ewart. Marion is still Smith as her husband's name is Smith, of Morris. Aunt Ellie's granddaughter and her husband and Great Grandson were also in attendance from Winnipeg as well as the Stan Shippams and their daughter Bev and her husband Bob Inglis. A good many people played their last respects to aunt Ellie on Monday.

We again extend thanks to the people who have brought us such a nice variety of garden vegetables.

Jean Burnett of Medora visited the tee pee on Monday and attended the funeral. We looked around but we didn't see the magic basket that she generally brings with her.

E. J. made a trip to Virden last week one afternoon and while it was good and hot and he passed out several hints to his partner that she might take him into the pub for a cold stout but she didn't take the hint.

We are sorry to hear that J. A. Donald has got himself a broken arm. We hope it isn't the arm with the bending elbow on it Jim.

Bob and Bev (Shippam) Ingalls of Red Lake visited with uncle E. J. at the tee pee on Monday afternoon.

There were quite a few gathered at the Park on Thursday night for bowling. We thought we were well away with no evil spirits about when suddenly appeared McLure, Hester & Lee from Melita. Fortunately for McLure he had a grandson along with him who could vouch for the three of them or they probably would never have been allowed through the gate.

Micheal and Bertie Lappin (nee Milliken) of California, U. S. A. arrived yesterday to visit with Bertie's mom Grace Milliken and other members of the family. You will be real happy about that Petunia.

Alstone Notes may be in other hands for the next month as the correspondent is thinking of taking off for Old Lanark County, shortly.

Mary Winch in coming over to see her mother at Alstone has lost a set of keys. If there's a finder please contact Mary.

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Dear Editor:

I would like a few lines in your valued paper to express the opinion of the Reston and District chamber of commerce on the subject of films for theatres in rural areas.

Some of these theatres are open for the entertainment of all and mostly children. Some of these theatres exist only by special tax districts and this was done so that our children would have some place to view suitable films during the week-ends. Yet in a recent run of pictures shown in this area, 17 in all, they were either adult or restricted.

Various excuses are given for this state of affairs. All the way from economics to the lack of films suitable. I suppose that this may be so, but surely there are old films in some libraries that our children have never seen. Twelve years to have never seen a person is not long but it is a lifetime to a child. What is the matter with a rerun of some that are that old. I am certain many adults would like to see some of the old classics rerun. If you do other communities feel on this subject?

E. Schurman, sec. treas., Reston & District Chamber of Commerce.

SUMMER SKY

It was a hot and sticky day. No breeze the trees to sway. As this day came to an end, We thought that cool would descend.

We sat and watched changing sky
Commenting as clouds went by;
Seeing in each and everyone,
Shapes as children we had done.

Here a pile of popcorn white,
Here a little lamb quite trite,
Here and there of darker hue
We could see how a storm could brew.

High towering fluff, like pure white snow
Some, "Jove's Anvil" would show;
Some like a misty veil would hang;
Some like forms from heaven sprang.

Ever a twisting, turning, churning,
Shapes that reach with yearning,
Some swirling as in strong breeze
Some seemed close enough for us to seize.

Other eyes than our must have viewed
And different thoughts contrived
For that long white roll meant hail
Which would growling wheat field flail.

But sun went down with fiery red,
Saying in morn its ray'd shed
In a life sustaining way
To make one more summer day.

NEW? IMPROVED?

It would require enormous naïveté to suppose that votes in elections are sought only through the merits and policies of candidates and parties.

It was not, thus in the past, Charles Dickens, describing the famous Entansville election in Pickwick Papers (written 1837), has a politician rejoice in the "masterly stroke of policy" by which his party had "opened all the public houses in the place and left our adversary nothing but the beer shops."

Nineteenth century Canada was not free from such "masterly strokes of policy." In 1874, speaking against the secret ballot, an MP told the commons that "elections cannot be carried without money. Under an open system of voting you can readily ascertain whether the voter has deceived you. Under vote by ballot, an elector may take your money and vote as he likes."

Few politicians could be equally candid today but what is one to think of a candidate in our next, still to be called Federal election who advertised a June meeting with "Music, DRAFT BEER & FREE REFRESHMENTS" in larger type than an opportunity to "talk to the candidate?"

But the really classic phrase of the poster announcing this flow of beer and song describes it as a "NEW! IMPROVED! MEETING" at which "a splendid time is guaranteed for all."

"What the Dickens have we come to?" — one might ask! But Dickens knew all about this "new, improved" type of election meeting well over a century ago.

THANKS — BUT NO THANKS!

It's hard to know whether to disbelieve some small news items or to smite the paper with a mallet. Such was the item from London, England, which quoted Defense Minister Edgar Benson as saying Canada expects to sign a $40-million contract for 100 tanks.

Tanks! Canada needs British tanks like it needs a trans-Atlantic suspension bridge for driving them over here.

Has the government learned nothing from the money it wasted on the Bomarc; on the refitting of the Bonaventure; on the Bobcat vehicles which never worked; on the Bras d'Or hydrofoil; on those jet fighters that go directly from the assembly line into mothballs?

Mr. Benson also suggested in London that the government may order $600 to $700 million worth of long range patrol aircraft to replace the Argus planes now in service. Some of these could watchdog for violations of Canada's anti-pollution regulations, especially in the Arctic. But those assigned, like the Argus, to anti-submarine patrols are essentially part of the U.S. Cold War establishment. Their purchase and operation would be a waste of tax money and would not even have the virtue of creating employment for Canadians.

At a time when George Ignatieff, Canada's Ambassador to the Office of the United Nations in Geneva, is pressing for general disarmament at the 25th annual disarmament conference, our government should be cutting back on purchases of these expensive military toys. Together these orders would total nearly $1-billion!

The Canadian public should tell Mr. Benson and the government: thanks, but no thanks. Or Planes — if they're going to be used to prolong a Cold War which benefits only munitions makers.

lights filled the park with a fairy-tale glow and there were international variety acts on an open-air stage, music, parades, dancing, gambling and rides.

We then saw what I think was the most breathtaking scenery anywhere as we travelled to Oslo, Norway. The train's ascent into the high hills and a very early sunrise permitted us to see waterfalls below us, steep mountains leading down to peaceful valleys and little towns built among the rocky cliffs, rivers and lush forests. A peaceful atmosphere reigned throughout the spectacularly beautiful country. The city of Oslo occupies a magnificent physical site, with high hills on 3 sides and the great Oslo Fjord—60 mi. long—in front. We visited the Viking Ships, excavated in 1904. These ships were apparently used as burial chambers for rich Vikings. Relics, found in the ships, were also displayed. We then saw the Polar ship "Fram"—the vessel that took Nansen to the Arctic in 1893 and Roald Amundsen to the South Pole in 1910. The entire ship has been hauled on land and placed into a unique, pyramid-shaped building so that you can see the ingeniously designed round hull that enabled the ship to ride up and over the crushing masses of polar ice. We saw the Kon-Tiki Raft in which recent explorers floated for 5000 miles, from Peru to Polynesia, to test the theory that South American Indians may have settled the South Pacific. We visited the Vigeland Sculptures which depict a life-cycle of man, from birth to death. Vigeland was a Norwegian sculptor who made a deal with the city of Oslo—if they paid his housing expenses for 30 years, he would use that time to create a magnificent sculpture garden in the city's Frogner Park. The result is the controversial but impressive sculptures. Oslo's City Hall is a lavishly-decorated building. Its central hall contains the largest oil painting ever done and is intricately designed with marble, stone and wood. Several shrimp boats dock in the lovely harbour in front of the City Hall; the shrimp are cooked on board. We bought some large freshly-cooked shrimp and ate them on the edge of the quay. After seeing the Royal

W. C. (Wib) Pierce has been appointed manager of the Simpson-Sears Store at Port Arthur. He moved to the lakehead from a similar position at Moose Jaw, Sask. . . . The Reston School re-opened on August 28 with four beginners. Members of the staff are: L. Shewchuk, principal, Mrs. L. Shewchuk, intermediate room, and Miss Joyce Adair, primary room. . . . The Reston Baseball Club won the Pipestone-Alberta League play-offs on Sunday and established two records. They went through the schedule without a loss and were undefeated in the play-offs. . . . Manson-Moore was the winning pitcher in both play-off games, defeating Sinclair and Elkhorn. . . . Reston Schools re-opened on Tuesday with 249 enrolled in the two schools, with 20 being beginners. . . . Arnold Leach is principal of the Collegiate with Paul Funk, Frank Basluk and Barbara Livingstone being members of the staff. . . . Mrs. E. Millegan of Pipestone is principal of the elementary school, with other staff members being Darlene Bothe, Mrs. T. Sharratt, Mrs. L. Clark and Mrs. P. Burner.

The first frost of the fall was on Monday night when the mercury was four degrees below freezing. . . . The quota for wheat has been raised to eight bushels an acre. . . . Harvesting is in progress. . . . The dance hall in the basement of the Reston Memorial Theatre was open Sept. 18th with the Manson Revellers providing the music. The work of laying the floor has been in charge of Hazel Bigney with Jack Cummings and Alex McCrae assisting.

Palace, we took a 1½-hour boat cruise of the Oslo Fjord.

After a long journey from Oslo, we stopped at Cologne, Germany. At our hotel a little argument was going on between the manager and a couple on tour. The subject of the argument was their reservations and hotel bill. After I admitted, I spoke a little German. I acted as interpreter for the people. I don't know if the hotel owners ever got over my rough German but at least everything was eventually cleared up. But we did realize that Europeans are much friendlier to tourists if they attempt to speak the native language. The following morning we were up at 5 o'clock to catch the 7 o'clock boat cruise on the Rhine River; it lasted for 14 hours and we saw the lovely German countryside dotted with old castles built on high hills and cliffs, and little villages of Bavarian styled homes. We passed through the towns of Bonn and Koblenz before disembarking at Mainz, where we were fortunate to catch a late train to Vienna, Austria, a wooded beautiful city but with incredible traffic jams. We visited St. Stephen's Cathedral with its magnificent Gothic architecture and towering steeple which can be seen from almost any spot in Vienna. We were able to attend a rehearsal of the famous Lippizan stallions at the Spanish Riding School. Watching these beautiful horses do their classical-style routines was very nice. Later the same day we toured Schonbrunn Palace and its glorious grounds. We had a tour of 45 of the 1200 rooms in the white and gilt rococo palace. Outstanding among the many ornate rooms were the exotic Chinese Rooms, Napoleon's Room, the Porcelain Room and the Millons Room in the most highly ornate rococo with its gold-framed mirrors and Indian painting on a rich wood paneled walls. It was truly beautiful and luxurious. Following the tour of the Palace we walked through the delightful grounds where we saw the Gloriette, an enormous classical stone arch directly opposite the Palace with excellent views of the surrounding countryside. In the Hofburg Castle we saw the Schatzkammer which contained Imperial and religious treasures.

ling . . . Cecil Ashcroft, of Tilson, had the misfortune to injure his right hand while unloading farm machinery at Sinclair on Friday afternoon. A bone in his hand was broken and several stitches were required to close the cut. . . . The Reston-Pipestone-Belleview Combines lost their first game at the 14 and under tournament in Brandon on Saturday. Eddie Guthrie managed the team and members were Willie Shing, Ivan Donald, Wes Crank, Phil Reedy, Jack Forsyth, Joe Blanchard, Harvey Chalmers, Andy Bernholt and Wilfred Gatin.

Lieut. Reg Guthrie of Dundurn, Sask., arrived last week to spend a short furlough at the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Bullock. . . . George Fraser Jr. is now in charge of the McCabe Elevator at Reston. . . . Harvest operations which were getting into high gear were halted by the heavy rain on Wednesday of the past week. . . . Quite an acreage of early-sown coarse grain has been cut and a start has been made on wheat. The combining was just beginning.

At the time of writing no applications had been received for teacher at the Huston School despite the highest salary being offered. . . . A family gathering was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Elliott on Sunday in honor of Jack Elliott who leaves this week for Toronto to continue his training with the R.C.A.F. . . . Cpl. Allan McKay, of Camp Shilo, is spending a two-week harvest leave at his home in the Sinclair district. . . . Clifford Gemmill, who has been in charge of the McCabe Elevator at Reston, some time has been transferred to McTaggart, Sask.

With practically all the wheat out and most of it in stock and the bulk of oats and barley laid low, the farmers are now busily engaged in thrashing. It will take six weeks to complete the task. The crop is heavy and many fields of wheat will go over 30 bushels to the acre, barley up to 60 and oats as high as 90. . . . Some harvest hands passing through Pipestone were offered $4.00 a day but refused it and went farther west. So many men went farther west that the supply exceeded the demand and consequently many are working for $2.50 a day. A few have drifted back to Pipestone with this tale of woe. . . . Robbers entered the Bank of Hamilton at Killarney on Monday night and succeeded in getting a nice haul—and this just recalls the fact that this is the only way that many can get money from the banks. . . . A number of Restonites spent Sunday at Oak Lake. The water at the lake is the highest it has been in many years at this season of the year.

The walls and ceiling of the Recorder office have just been treated to a coat of Kalsomine which greatly improves the appearance. Delinquent subscribers can now take pleasure and assist us to pay for the work by paying up their subscriptions.

Every west bound express carried a large number of harvest hands, but none would get over when offered the highest wages as they had tickets as far west as possible. The general prevailing wage is $3.00 per day. . . . Cutting became general on Monday. During the past week a large number of farmers were in town every day making arrangements to take the crop off. Large quantities of binda twine were taken out of the country. . . . On Wednesday of last week, T. Conner of the Pipestone district was killed when he went to the head of the team hauling a load of wood and the team started up and the heavy wagon ran over him. He died about four hours after the accident and the remains were taken to Grande Prairie for burial.

Sauce for the Goose

Personally I'm very glad there is at least one local man, man enough to protest against the list of shows selected for the summer season in Reston. Was there one that was classed as being suitable for children? It does seem in this day and age when a lot of children have money to spend or waste and in holiday time in particular, that a suitable entertainment would be a good place for some of it.

There has been considerable talk about change in air travel routes inside Canada without specific instances. Brett Reynolds, not 4 years until Jan. flew with his mother from Ottawa to Winnipeg and his return fair was $73.00.

A lady in Ottawa of Scots background whose parents live in Vancouver found that fare to visit them in Scotland was less than to do so inside Canada.

Another party found air fare from Ottawa to Los Angeles less than to Vancouver.

One more item that came to notice was of a party in Minneapolis, who had a business trip to make to Saskatoon, on account Nor West air lines strike had to fly to Denver via Calgary to complete his trip.

Announcer at the Republican convention gave Mrs. Nixon, the first lady of the world, wonder he didn't take in the universe.

Outdoors Only

By The Rambler

No. 257

Now that the holiday loop by car through Saskatchewan, into Alberta, and back again has been traversed and settled in memory, this Rambler had better settle into the saddle and ride herd on some of the summer's strays.

First, there was the Annual Breeding Bird Survey, conducted July 1 over the usual 25-mile route from north of Ebor to seven miles south of Sinclair, but still not accounted for here. The 50 stops of 3 minutes, each, produced a count of 914 birds representing 57 species. This showed a drop of over 100 in the total but an increase of 4 in the species over the count of 1971. Gulls, Hawks, Woodpeckers, Grebes were short in count or missing, although made up for by a few species not recorded last year, such as the Short-billed Marsh Wren. Besides the count, conditions for it were very good, also, with very light wind, mostly clear sky, and moderate temperatures. How about joining us on the next summer's count, eh?

Results mailed to Laurel, Maryland, U.S.A. will be analyzed and computerized by the Non-Game Birds Research Division of the U.S. Department of the Interior. By next spring there will be a report on the findings and evaluations of counts across Canada and the United States. Shifting populations of bird species, as affect farmers, is just one type of commentary included in reports.

Those June cougars reported from Antler have been fully confirmed. George Godenir observed one; George McLean, working for Mr. Godenir, watched two adults and two young in different groupings over two days; and Vic Vincent of Tilson viewed a tawny, large-sized, long-tailed beast two miles east of Tilson from his grader. It moved off into the bush on the north side of the track. Tom White, Saskatchewan cougar specialist from Regina, twice visited the area of sightings on the Godenir farm that lies along part of Graham Creek where it roughly parallels the Saskatchewan-Manitoba boundary.

Mr. White's observations included a summer-fallowed field with an unused badger hole that appeared to have been enlarged and contained grass forming a bed for four or five feet into the hole. Bones and feathers lay at the entrance of this den. Other evidence convinced Mr. White of the presence of cougars in the area, as for example, the near lack of deer in an area usually densely populated by them, reports of cattle and horses acting wildly, and some herds of cows lying, facing outward, in a circle with their calves inside it.

These points are of some interest regarding the ecology of these large, beautiful, shy and seldom seen animals. Only heaven knows where they will show up next; nothing, I have heard told, has been seen or heard in the meanwhile of the June cougars; and they may be scores of miles away now, remaining in rough, bushed creek lands, and helping to keep deer herds healthy.

Talking about deer brings to mind a July visit, during a return from Winnipeg, to Portage La Prairie, Island Park. For those who fancy pleasant leisure, there are leafy drives, rolling lawns, flowers, pools, many benches, vistas of the Assiniboine River and a quaint Dutch mill that pumps river water for aquatic birds. More energetic visitors may delight in driving or strolling around the area that contains a variety of deer of different ages and sizes in a refreshingly natural and beautiful setting: great bending ridges, hollows, nooks, shady areas and pools. Velvet-antlered bucks stepping daintily near for hand-outs of lettuce or some other delicious greens provide excellent targets for camera buffs; both the subject and the lighting can be interesting challenges. Then, for bird-minded guests there are (at least, were) flocks of different kinds of ducks and some geese frolicking on the Assiniboine. One can imagine the scene as being a marvelous place for observing spring migrations. It's a comforting place almost anytime.

Fall migrations are already the thing in Reston. Crows, Blackbirds, Meadowlarks and other species have been grouping for the past few weeks. Now, however, grouping is not the word for it. A couple of miles south of Sinclair the other day, Redwing Blackbirds in one swarm must have numbered around 800, and elsewhere similar counts are available.

In town and country, birdsong may be mostly absent, but if you listen attentively early in the mornings, bushes and trees will be alive with small sounds of birds chirping, scratching, snapping seeds, fluttering about, foraging in the mightily competition for enough food before having to set off on another stretch of their journey far to the south. If any linger, such birds may be the risk of stiffer competition with other waves of birds, or other species arriving here to find their share of rest and restoring nourishment. This doesn't mean, however, that staging areas and stopping times remain unchanged; they shift, overlap and merge, yet with no apparent harm to species when one considers how they mostly survive and increase their numbers. Evolution is slowly at work, life screens the competitors: new experience strengthens the hardy and exploits the weak to strengthen others. Part of this living experience is death, a means for conservation. When death first began, conservation began. But even conservation can be distorted.

How would you like to visit an oasis of growth and loveliness? It has green grass, colourful flowers, all kinds of bushes and trees, sunny areas, shaded alleys and corners, birds and insects, benches, tables, play areas and the charm of a multitude of changes and scenes. If these more-than-four acres of Reston Park were used and appreciated as much and as often as they ought to be, there probably would be an attitude and activity that would prevent or eliminate the abuse that the park has borne. Reston's economy, importance and prestige could be favorably affected by enterprising administration taking a firm hand in conserving Reston Park—not the vandals. Ostriches have no place where so much value and beauty is at stake.

Yours naturally,
RAMBLER

The Editor's European trip

by Francis Lobreau

On a crop inspection trip on Sunday evening, saw two large birds circling and finally landing about a half mile west of the road, a mile south of Roy Campbell's farm. Didn't have my field glasses with me, so couldn't make up my mind what they were, my first thought being Sandhill Cranes, because of the huge wing span. The mystery was solved when we ran into Roy on Monday—they were Blue Herons, there are about four of these birds in that area. . . . According to reports there is still grass on the fairways at the Shilo golf course. We thought that the foursome of Bill Iles, Bruce Marlin, Wayne Morrow and Larry Robinson, would really burn that course up in the tournament on Sunday, but reports are that such was not the case. . . . There was a choice of tournaments on Sunday, besides Shilo, both Virden and Elkhorn held their fall tournaments. Harold Hume and Orville Klusendorf attended the latter. . . . This has been some year, weatherwise, July being a near record for cool weather and now at the end of August, the mercury climbing into the 90 degree range. However, a month of this kind of weather would be welcome so that the harvest could be completed. It is a quite a number of years since the harvest has been completed without an interruption. . . . Forgo to mention this before, but recently played a round at the Hartney Golf Club and it was literally alive with grasshoppers. . . . Come next Tuesday, it's back to the usual routine, the kids will be in school and out of their mother's hair! . . .

Mrs. Siliva Halls, out in the Broomhill district has a freak cabbage, it has four heads. Must be related to Brussels Sprouts, which grow several on a stem. In World War II days we got so many of them, while in England, that we got the impression that the market gardeners grew nothing else!

If we want to be changed and become one in Christ, we must invite the Savior into our
