Pengelly-Stonehouse exchange nuptial vows in Cromer Church

CROMER — Cromer United Church was the setting of a double ring ceremony, September 2, when Bonnie Lorraine, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Stonehouse, of Ebor, was united in marriage with Mr. Richard John Pengelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Pengelly, of Woodnorth. Misses Geraldine and Helen Pengelly, sisters of the groom, were bridesmaids and also wore floor length gowns. Geraldine's dress was pink tulle, and Helen's dress was a golden yellow tulle. Wayne Morrow wins Melita championship

RESTON — Wayne Morrow won the championship at the Melita Golf Tournament held on Sunday. He shot a total of 76 for the 18 holes to beat "Baldy" Cheyne of the home club by one stroke. Ninety-nine golfers took part.

This is the second occasion that Wayne has won the title, the first time being at the first tournament there some 15 or more years ago. "A long time between wins" was his comment.

A high wind made scoring difficult on the sporty nine hole course which has a par of 35.

Work has commenced to convert the course to grass greens which are expected to be playable by next year.

Other Reston golfers taking part were Bruce Marlin, Bill Iles, Harold Hume, Larry Robinson, Orville Klusendorf and F. R. Manning.

Good prizes offered for creative writing

TORONTO—Creative writing at the high school level gets a shot in the arm this fall when one of Canada's major trust companies will award a prize of $1,000 to the student producing the best, open subject, short story. This is believed to be the highest cash prize available to students for creative writing and is on a par with amounts earned by many professional writers. Over $5,000 will be awarded to the top three submissions from each province and specially award certificates will be given to all other outstanding entries.

Rules and regulations have been sent to the Heads of English Departments of all Canadian high schools and copies are also available from branch offices of the sponsoring company, Canada Permanent Trust.

"Young people today tend to think of financial companies as being pretty unemotional places," says Don Sinclair, Canada Permanent's Public Relations Manager, "and a trust company is the last place they'd think would be interested in encouraging them to express their feelings through writing. Our company has made thousands of new friends across Canada in the six years we have been sponsoring these awards. Well over 2,000 stories are received each year and some first rate material has come to light."

The company publishes the provincial first prize winner in book form. This is made available to high school libraries and is also used to teachers for class room instruction.

She had some others almost as big, but this was the biggest—in fact, the biggest we, and Mrs. Ludlam and even seen. It was of the Beefsteak variety.

On Sept. 9th Mrs. Hawlett and Miss Lillian Hay, of Winnipeg, visited at the J. D. Bulloch's.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Jezzard visited their mother. Their daughter and her husband were with them. They also visited Wm.'s brother Frank and family.

Word has just been received of the passing of Mr. Wm. Chester at White Rock, B. C. Sincere sympathy from the senior citizens at Alstone to the remaining members of the family.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Wynn, Grant and a lady friend called on J. D. Bulloch's on Sunday evening.

I'm really left alone to write these notes as Miss Jackson left today (Sunday) for Kisbey and on to Regina for a couple of week's visit. So do hope our regular readers will not be missing our regular crumb Mr. E. J. Guthrie too much—Hope Eddie you have reached your destination and are having a real good visit, and speaking for myself I'm hoping I keep real well while you are away!

Well if they can draw welfare the rest of this month on Oct. 1st the minimum wage goes to $1.75 per hour.

What will be the practical benefit from this?

A goodly number will think quite a few times before hiring help if there is any way around the problem. Can I buy a larger machine or put a machine where I formerly put a man?

Those caught in the jam will have no other option other than to raise prices and who benefits in the long run?

Whether is a man better off drawing a $ an hour on the job (some jobs only involve pressing buttons, no actual work any way) or going without a job at $1.75 an hour?

It's fantastic how things have spiraled in 60 years. When harvest wages went to $3.00 a day, I bought one of the first combine in our area. I know that a considerable number thought I should have my head examined, but I ask you where and at what price would you find help to operate a threshing outfit today.

SOMETIMES ADULTS KNOW BEST

Among the many noise contributors to our noise pollution must surely be included rock music which some parents think they have to endure in order to be "with it." But dear parents, you need no longer pathetically put up with that loud sound from your children's radio, stereo, or rock group. If you've felt an inward revulsion to it, your sensitivity has now been scientifically proven sound.

A series of experiments carried out over the past two years by Temple Bell College, Denver, has revealed that three hours of rock music a day "shrivelled young squash plants, flattened philodendron and crumpled corn" all in less than a month. Experiments with hundreds of plants from geraniums to beans showed the plants tried to escape the inharmonious sound by leaning away from the radio blaring rock music, and finally died. Other petunias "listening" to semi-classical or church music blossomed and zinnias taking part in the experiment grew straight and tall. In every case rock music proved harmful.

Some time ago a study undertaken by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company showed that at 90 decibels of noise, the human blood circulation decreases, the flow of saliva and gastric juices is reduced, and the adrenal flow increases, preparing the body for "emergency." 90 decibels is the level of kitchen noise at its peak which is presumably somewhat lower than the vibrational impact of rock music. Needless to say this level of noise is destructive to the human body and subjection to this kind of sound is bound to contribute to unrest, turmoil and violence that breaks out periodically in society. Parents would be doing their children, themselves, and the world a good turn by "turning off" rock music. This is one instance where parents should forget about being "with it" and take the lead in protecting children who haven't yet the sense to protect themselves from destructive influences in the "now" scene.

GUN CONTROLS

Canadians look at the tragic record of political assassinations in the United States over the past decade & say "it can't happen here, we have gun controls."

In Canada all hand guns are supposed to be registered. But purchase of rifles and shotguns is wide open. Anyone 16 or over can buy a rifle and convert it into a hand weapon by sawing off the barrel. Not even much cash is needed to buy death — $15 or $20 second hand.

Police feel the situation is ridiculous. They refuse a hand gun permit to a man who walks down the street and buys a rifle. More than 2,000,000 rifles and shotguns are in the hands of Canadians and there are an estimated 100,000 unregistered hand guns in Toronto alone.

Crimes involving firearms are increasing. In Toronto there were 336 in 1970, and 386 in 1971. Police want citizens to rid themselves of the idea that guns mean protection. More often they mean accidental death. They cite the tragedy of the bank manager who threw off a quick shot at a fleeing robber — blasting a teller through the head.

Easily available weapons promote violence in violent times. Japan, which has tough gun laws has a rate of only two gun murders per 100,000 while Charlotte, North Carolina, where guns come easy, has a rate of 25 per 100,000.

Citizens must press provincial and federal governments for iron-clad gun laws on all firearms and more public education — and work through municipal representatives for increased police protection.

European trip

by Francis Lobreau

Our next stay was in Barcelona, Spain where we tasted a delicious new dish called paella which consists of rice and an assortment of seafoods, such as clams and shrimp. Spain is not only a wonderful country to visit, but it is a shopper's paradise, offering tourists a wide selection of truly lovely and inexpensive articles, whether it be souvenirs or clothes. After a few days stay in Barcelona we took a ship called the Ciudad de Cadiz to the town of Mahon, on the island of Menorca. This was to be our holiday from our holiday. This town was not yet a major tourist area; little English was spoken and the way of living was more primitive, and much slower than the North American way. We really enjoyed our stay here. People here do not concern themselves with material possessions and seem to enjoy life to a greater extent. They work and relax as the urge hits them and stop to talk to everyone in the little, narrow streets which all had white buildings with green shutters. There was only a market place, tiny shops and a dock in Mahon. For a couple of days, we took a short bus ride to the beach at Punta Prima and sat in the sun or swam in the Mediterranean. The soil was poor and supported only sparse and scrubby vegetation; small parcels of land were fenced off by stone walls. People were extremely friendly and patient. It was a wonderful place to escape the hustle and bustle of modern days life and also to experience something so marvellously strange.

We returned to Barcelona for a short while before going on to Madrid which must be one of the most air polluted cities in all of Western Europe. The highlight of Madrid was a bullfight at the Plaza de Toros on June 25, a day which honored the painter Goya. The bullfight was called Corrida Goyena and saw 3 of Spain's leading matadors on the program. The bull-fight and the excitement it provoked are difficult to describe but it was certainly an exciting 2½ hour show. First of all, several horses and riders put on a colorful performance. Horses drawn carriages with senoritas in their Spanish dress and holding bouquets of roses were next to appear. The matadors then came out in procession with their brilliant suits and capes. Everyone shouted with delight as the trumpeter announced the arrival of the stately and proud bull as it charged into the circular ring. Two men riding horses then entered; the horses' sides were protected by something that resembled mattresses. The angry bull charged a horse with such force that the horse and rider almost toppled over. During this time, the rider sticks a long spear deeply into the bull, leaving it there a while before removing it. Mediocore bullfighters then distract the bull away from the horses. Then several matadors each took several smaller spears decorated with ribbons. As the bull charged the bullfighter, he also ran toward the animal. But voked are difficult to describe just before collision and what would have been inevitable death, the matador dodged and pierced the bull as the crowd roared with excitement. This goes on for a while, and eventually the bull may have as many as a dozen small spears with different colored ribbons protruding from its bloody back. The snorting bull is now very fierce but probably weaker. It was then the turn of a very skilled rider to place yet another spear into the bull. This provided some very thrilling moments. The celebrated matador enters the ring alone and the bullfight is in high gear. After several tense minutes of bullfighting, the matador takes a sword which he had under his cape and stabs the bull, leaving it dangling from the bull which finally collapses as a result of weakness and fatigue. It is now bleeding considerably. As the bull falls, it is given a final deadly thrust with a dagger. The spectators, especially the women, cheer with approval, throw roses to the matadors and wave handkerchiefs as three plumed mules drag the carcass out. Seven bulls were killed during that evening; each bull was used for about 15 minutes and the crowd got more excited as the time went by. Greg and I then stopped in Lourdes, France, a quiet town though there are always many tourists and pilgrimages to the Holy Shrine and Miraculous Spring. Masses were held throughout most of the day in several languages, commencing very early in the morning. They were usually held in the lovely Basilica or at the Grotto where the vision of the Virgin Mary appeared to St. Bernadette. Mass is also held for the sick and disabled in a special underground building. Holy Baths are available for several hours each day and there are always people drinking or collecting water from the Miraculous Spring. Burned crutches and canes of people who have been cured hang near the Grotto. The lady, at whose hotel we were staying, told us that she has had three people who left Lourdes cured of their handicaps.

On our last day in Lourdes, a miracle occurred — a youngster, who had never spoken, began to speak. We participated in a "Procession des Flambeaux" which is held every night. Hundreds of people, arranged in 3 columns and each carrying a lighted candle, proceed from the Grotto to the front of the Basilica. During the procession, which lasted 1½ hours, "Ave Maria" was sung in several languages. The emotions of many were aroused. We also visited St. Bernadette's birthplace and home. We toured the Chateau Fort, a fortress which had been transformed into an interesting museum depicting life in Old France. We also saw the Grotto de Betharram which are a series of caves and underground passages with fascinating and odd rock formations due to the earth's natural processes. Stalagmites on the floor and stalactites on the ceiling are united to form columns of natural, simple beauty. Most formations had their own name, like the "Ceiling of Sponges" and the "Statue of Joan of Arc". We had to descend several hundred stairs to reach the most interesting places, sometimes walking in total darkness. We took a boat ride on the underground river.

Our last week in Europe was spent back in Paris, fine city of fashion and elegance. We went to a French movie one night at 10:00 p.m., the last showing may start as late as 12:30 a.m. The theatre's seats, floor and walls were decorated in red velvet; refreshments were sold at the seats prior to the show. Commercials are shown as well as cartoons before the main feature.

We took a short trip to Versailles to tour the palace and grounds. Then we were in the Louvre for 6 hours. It is the world's greatest museum and it would take several days to see everything. There are 125 classified masterpieces in the Louvre which is divided into several departments of many rooms, among them being the Egyptian and Oriental Antiquities, Sculpture, Objets d'Art (including the "Galerie Apollon" with the Crown Jewels and Napoleon's Crown), Greek and Roman Antiquities, Paintings and Drawings. Among the many things we saw was Da Vinci's "Mona Lisa." The next day, we went to the Invalides which houses the Army Museum and Church. Dead centre in the middle of the church, directly under the dome, is Napoleon's large tomb. (Inside, Napoleon is encased in 8 caskets.) Around the tomb are 12 enormous, almost identical stone maidens, holding laurels or keys commemorating Napoleon's most famous battles. The collections in the Army Museum evoke the military and political history of France and all nations, from the Paleolithic era through World War II. Armor, weapons, cannon, flags, banners and uniforms, personal objects of Napoleon (such as his deathbed and one of his favorite horses) are all very colorfully displayed and quite fascinating. We took the elevator to the top of the Eiffel Tower and had a panoramic view of the city. We strolled down famous Pigalle one evening and saw "Le Moulin Rouge."

We were up early the morning of July 5 to finish packing for our return flight home which departed at 12:45 p.m. We came back in a Boeing 747, a lovely plane which seats 305 passengers. During the flight a movie was shown and we had our choice of listening to several kinds of music, ranging from pop to classical. It was a wonderful feeling as the plane touched Canadian soil again. We were held up in Montreal because of plane troubles and arrived in Winnipeg at 8:10 p.m.; the end of a profound, living experience where stories out of books and school lessons had become a reality.

Harvest resumed on Monday after three weeks delay because of wet weather. A half inch rainfall on Friday was accompanied by the severest electrical storm of the season. There was some hail in the Tilston district. About 75% of the grain is harvested. . . . The Reston Memorial Theatre hall opens with a dance tonight (Thursday) with the Mason Revellers providing the music. . . . Donna Walker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Walker of the Linklater district, has a way with Dahlias. On Saturday she brought a few to town that measured 10 inches across. . . . The Ewart W.I. met at the home of Mrs. W. Chambers on Sept. 10th with seven members and two visitors present. It was decided that the W.I. would have a booth at the Reston Fun Fair. . . . Duck hunting opened today at noon. Locally the duck population is down considerably from last year and according to survey there is a reduction of 25% in the duck population in Manitoba. However, this decrease is more than offset by increased numbers in Saskatchewan and Alberta.

With continued dry weather threshing operations will be wound up by the end of the week. A number of farmers have already done considerable plowing, which it is hoped will enable them to get ahead of the Russian thistles. . . . A spectacular fire on Tuesday of last week destroyed the threshing machine owned by John Hayward of the Sinclair district. The machine was threshing at the Ed Stevenson farm at the time. He had no insurance on the machine. . . . A gasoline-electric engine was used for the first time on Tuesday to haul the west-bound express through Reston. (This type of engine later became known as "The Skunk.") . . . Master Tommy Dodds of the Belles district had the misfortune to have the upper part of his face scalded in taking the lid off a can he had water boiling in.

50 YEARS AGO (Sept. 10, 1922)

The first frost of the season occurred on Sunday night and severely cut any of the tender garden stuff that was left unprotected. . . . For the first time in nine days, the harvesters are busy, a number having started up south of town. In the Hillview district it is not anticipated that the grain will be dry enough for several days. . . . G. S. This is the first machine of this kind to be sold in the district and is an indication of the trend towards the amount of corn being sown in the district. . . . Miss Abercrombie and Miss Cuttidge have returned to take charge of the Millinery Department at the G. S. Munro Co. store. They came directly from Winnipeg where they purchased supplies after looking over the latest millinery creations.

The Editor's Jotbook

A potato vine in the George While garden decided to produce the tubers above the ground instead of underneath as is the usual case, and then the small tubers decided to sprout, so, all-in-all it is quite a peculiar looking specimen that adorns the counter at the Recorder office. . . . That Mack Herron is quite the football player. Mind you, we saw him playing against the B.C. Lions who really don't frighten too many clubs this year, but to watch him run was worth the price of admission. Winnipeg bombed B.C. something like 43 to 7 on Thursday, the night we saw them perform. There was no scoring the first quarter, but from then on it was all Winnipeg. . . . According to the Hamiota Echo that 77 we shot at Hamiota a week ago Sunday was good enough for a fourth prize in the second flight. We are eagerly awaiting the prize. During the same afternoon, called on the Fred Venables, but found them away. Too bad, because Fred is the only weekly newspaper publisher in Manitoba who also operates a liquor outlet (legally that is). . . . Just received a subscription renewal from C. E. King of Victoria, B.C. Mr. King lived south of Reston and Pipestone some 60 years ago. . . . The number of former residents of the area who take the Recorder is quite high, and indication is the fact that we mail over 1400 copies each week, almost three for every resident of Reston.

Everybody has their own dream of how they'd really like to decorate their home. But only a lucky few ever have enough money to fulfill that dream. The others compromise, buying what they can afford so their home never quite becomes an extension of their own personality. When you buy a ticket on the Manitoba Golden Sweepstakes Football Draw, you're buying a chance to decorate your home the way you want, not the way you can afford. Because you're buying a chance to win $100,000. If you win, you can buy that stereo with 10 speakers, one for every room in the new house you just bought. You can fill the walls with original paintings and cover the floors with luxurious shag carpeting.

So go ahead . . . buy a ticket on the Manitoba Golden Sweepstakes Football Draw. They cost only $2.50. If you win . . . you're really going to have it made. Maybe you should buy two!

Outdoors Only...

By The Rambler
No. 250

There were no monsoons, but the rains came. Actually, they were not unpleasant, for they refreshed air and ground, and re-juiced many a root and stalk towards new foliage. Unfortunately was the time when it came, breaking up the harvest just when half of the sheaves had been brought in.

Prepared for the downpour this time, Rambler recorded nine-tenth of an inch of rain the first weekend of September; one-tenth, week ago Wednesday; and three-tenths, early Sunday morning. This seems a good beginning for fall soils and evergreens preparing for winter. The town ghost became startlingly real for about five seconds last Monday morning when a miniature lynx dashed across Main Street and disappeared into the tall grass between the old hotel and the Modern Cafe. A quarter and rear view left no doubt about my having seen the missing Manx, looking sleek and handsome. Brian Zarn was another immediate witness of the passing of Puss. Considering the different way this cat runs, it might well be termed the Galloping Feline. May it run in peace for many a year and charm the people of Reston!

Other sights of wildlife concern birds by the thousands. As other observers have likely noted, Blackbirds are gathering in tremendous numbers like trusty clansmen readying for the charge against a southern foe. Brewer's Blackbirds, Redwing Blackbirds and Yellow-headed Blackbirds were seen over last weekend in swirling swarms that in some cases must have contained four thousand birds. I can not remember when I have seen migration flocks of such great size.

The August 1972 News Bulletin of the Manitoba Naturalists Society gave a report of the Lyleton Bluebird Lane. Of 85 Bluebird houses erected in 1970 by John Murray of Lyleton and his two children, Brenda and Norman, only one house was occupied (and not even fully) by Eastern Bluebirds once over the last three years. There was no occupation by Western Bluebirds despite the multitude of Bluebirds that pass through the district. Apparently Lyleton is normally outside the southern boundary of the region occupied by nesting Bluebirds. Yet Reston is definitely within the region; the species nests here both in houses and in hollow trees.

Mr. Murray's statistics showed a considerable use of the Bluebird houses by Tree Swallows, House Sparrows, House Wrens and Deer Mice. However, the statistics showed also that occupation by Tree Swallows and House Sparrows is lessening; that by mice is increasing.

Last Sunday's beautiful weather made it an excellent day for the Brandon Natural History Society's September safari. This outing, led by Mr. Andrew Black of Brandon, visited the site of Gregory's Mill (constructed by Mr. Black's father in 1883) on the Souris River south of Neabitt. High cliffs, colourful valleys and coulees, distant hills and varieties of plant, animal and bird life provided scope for observers, photographers, collectors and revelers. Two other special points of interest were Prospect Point, a height that overlooks the head of the valley leading eastward to the lakes south of the Tiger Hills, and Mr. Black's old homestead with its more-than-60-foot high, stately Russian poplars. Two horse-chestnut trees still grace the homestead's orchard.

Interested persons may like to arrange to join the Brandon group on its October outing, a visit to Whitewater Lake and its migrating waterfowl, and convinced of the merit to become a member of the Brandon Natural History Society. For details, phone Rambler, 3320.

Of course, if a dozen or so persons were actively interested, there is no reason why a local group of naturalists couldn't organize. Our local environment and wildlife provide lots of opportunity for a variety of interests. Not only that, such a group is far better able to serve as a voice of protest or support of natural historical issues that affect the public. Further, a group like this can affiliate with larger or other local natural historical groups and thus increase mutual benefits and enjoyments.

Yours naturally,
RAMBLER

I seldom notice the front cover of the Country Guide, but this week my first glance aroused my feelings on such superb photography, the vignette on the leaves of the corn and the sun bursting forth on the corn tassels, all reminding us that there is a great future in corn growing on the prairies. Proud to say that this picture was taken by Ronald Ayres, son of our pioneer Mervin Ayres who was the son of Robert Ayres, one of the first pioneers.

● Militant radical actress Jane Fonda says she is "proud of being an American" . . . I wonder how many Americans are proud of Jane Fonda?

● Many headaches are caused by eye-strain, we are told . . . and plenty more by things we read in the papers.

● Tip of the cady to townspeople of Bolasevain, Manitoba, for thinking up and successfully staging the "World's Only Turle Derby" . . . which got nationwide and international publicity.

● We're told that "animals without any backbone make up 95 per cent of all kinds of animals on earth" . . . quite a few humans would have to be added, obviously.

● Confucius say: "A man who goes over what he has already learned, and gains some new understanding of it, is worthy to be a teacher."

● Headline in the paper (on the USA, presidential election campaign) says, "The Outlook For McGovern is Even Worse Than It Looks."

● Report from Munich Olympic Games informs that, of 823 sex tests on athletes, it was determined that all girls examined were girls.

● Fella complains that all those hundreds of times reported beer commercials on television makes him uptight.

● Headlined story in the press reports Resources Minister Sid Green told the president of Manitoba Federation of Fishermen to go take "a jump in the lake" . . . the report doesn't say if the Fishermen's prey asked if he could put on his bathing suit first.

● Report states only 18 per cent of all shoes manufactured in the USA today have leather soles. Which means the other 82 per cent would have soles of rubber, plastic . . . or paper.

● "Smiler" Bennett, kicked out by voters after giving his province 20 years of prosperity-creating government, must be feeling like a football coach who takes his team to the Grey Cup . . . then gets fired.

● Things are looking up for Male Lib! A 2-column report of a wedding in the Reston Recorder, included this paragraph: "The groom wore a black tuxedo with white ruffled shirt and a white carnation."

● Well, a lot of us asked for it—now we've got almost two months of federal election bally-hooing on the hustings.

● Sign on the 'S.T. REGIS' registration desk: "We Just Love Families!" . . . so typical of this friendly home-away-from-home Smith Street hostelry.
